THE POOR INDIAN EXHIBIT AT THE FAIR.
CHARLES STEWART SMITH EXPLAINS WHY THIS IS THE CASE.

Mr. Wilson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has received the following letter from Charles Stewart Smith, under date at Bombay, India, of January 20, 1893:

Those who have had an opportunity to see the artistic, positive and industrial worth of India, either in its home or in the recent exhibition in London, will be disappointed to learn that the display at this country at Chicago will be miserably inadequate and not at all representative of the varied and interesting productions, regarding which so little is known in the United States. There would seem to be some foundation for the opinion that I have heard expressed by intelligent natives, to the effect that the Government was very indifferent, if not tacitly hostile to any considerable display of Indian products at the Chicago Fair. This Government, representing 200,000,000 Indians, seems to participate in the Chicago Exhibition, appropriating only $100,000, equal to $3,000 for this purpose. The place where this amount is in the hands of a respectable agent, dead requesting him to make the best display for this absurdly small sum. When these facts became known at Chicago, the WAYS AND MEANS Committee of the Fair, appointed Henry Ballantine, Esq., of the Senate, Compt. at Bombay, Special Commissioner to Mr. Ballantine was born in India and educated in India. He is the author of an interesting book on Persia, and is well fitted by a residence of over ten years in India, and by extensive travel and acquaintance with leading natives and their languages, to furnish the task assigned to him by the Chicago Committee of securing a proper Indian display at Chicago. We can documentarily evidence showing that the said commissioners had performed his part well. The Governor of Baroda, the most powerful of the native states, who is also one of the few remaining kings of independent states, and who wears worthily the Grand Seal of the State of India, had prepared an important exhibition, a list of which I saw.

The Senate adopted a resolution declaring that the Supreme Court had no jurisdiction in the House matter; that the State constitution provides that "each House shall be the judge of its election returns and qualifications of its own members," and that the court's action in assuming authority to take up the case was unwarranted. Republicans of the Senate did all in their power to prevent the passage of the resolution, but the Populists prevailed by reason of numbers. This action partially confirms the general belief that the Populists will ignore the decision of the Supreme Court should it be adverse to the Populist House. The court will hand down its decision probably next Saturday.

J. W. Ady, who was elected, or rather declared elected, United States Senator by the Republicans last month, was in town last night in consultation with the Republicans, who are manipulating the senatorial boom of H. P. Wagener (Dem.). He gave it out that he did not like the plan to swap horses in the middle of the stream, but the fact that he made no protest to the Republican managers gives rise to the belief that he will aid the Wagener boom in every way he can.
